• Comprehensive evaluation

I feel that teaching has always been my vocation, I have a natural affinity with children and teaching allows me to make a positive difference to children' s lives. To date my placements have provided me with exceptional experiences and have enabled me to identify the broader role of the teacher. I recognise that teaching is a very rewarding yet very challenging career. Every child is unique; they have different learning styles, interests and personalities. They may have special educational needs or come from various socio-economic backgrounds. The challenges that this presents are what make teaching so rewarding. My positive and enthusiastic personality means that I relish these challenges. In addition, I have a passion for health and fitness and would be keen to assist with various after-school sports clubs or healthy eating interventions within Primary Schools. I am an extremely organised person, enjoy meeting new people, have the ability to work well within a team and also have the ability to listen which I feel are important attributes when working within the teaching profession.
